

Student Conference on International Law

SCIL - Student Conference on International Law

August 1-4, 2011

"In theory, there is no difference between theory and practice. But in practice, there is..."

International Law has become a prominent discipline in the global arena. Despite this, there are very few places where one can observe and understand the practical complexities that lie behind the theoretical issues. One of these places is the Middle East, and more specifically, Israel. This summer, for the first time, we are offering a unique opportunity to get a glimpse into some of the most complicated and debated issues of International Law, by participating in a "Student conference on International Law". SCIL aims to promote a professional and balanced dialogue within the framework of exceptional speakers and unique workshops, which will take place at the center of one of the most heated conflicts in history.

Participants

Top law students from around the world with an International Law orientation, holding a strong passion for growth and prosperity in the field of International Law. The wide variety of students coming from diverse origins will enable participants to create for themselves a colorful network of colleagues who share common interests and professions.

Program

Participants will undergo a unique experience, as they witness some of the most debated places with their own eyes and hear lectures from experts in the International Law community. The participants will experience the multi-cultured and diverse city of Jerusalem, one of the most popular tourist destinations in the world.

SCIL will grant these students with tools to expand their knowledge of international law and an opportunity to view its practice first-hand, to formulate their own opinions and international connections.

Topics

- Legal dilemmas in asymmetrical conflicts with non-state belligerents
- Global political influence on International Law
- Non-governmental organizations in the international arena
- Strategic tours of disputed areas

About Us

We're a group of 25 students from the Hebrew University in Jerusalem, studying various subjects from law to media, participating in the "StandWithUs Fellowship". StandWithUs International is a non-profit Israel education organization that hosts speakers, programs and conferences in cities around the world, www.standwithus.co.il.

